Dear Mr. Gunter,

I care about Utah's air.

I am not a scientist. I am a mother. And it makes me worried to live in a place where my children cannot go outside and breathe. Isn't breathing one of the most fundamental necessities of life!

I know people in general do not like to make sacrifices. But I also know that without the power of the law behind it, we will not see any significant change and improvement.

I would love to have public transit improved. We need more buses and better schedules. It just won't work when it takes 75 minutes to get there on bus versus 25 minutes by car. We need more education to all (perhaps mailers to homes) about what people can do to help (no idling, etc.).

I am all for making changes to help save our air.
