Re: Section 19-6-1203 – ELECTRONIC WASTE DISPOSAL REPORT

Dear Ms. Smith:

Consistent with the requirements of Section 19-6-1203, the Consumer Electronics Association® (CEA) is pleased to submit the following report on behalf of the 32 manufacturers shown in Appendix 1.

Current consumer electronics recycling opportunities in Utah include both mail-back programs and physical collection sites. Eligible mail-back programs in the state of Utah are offered by numerous companies including Dell (free for Dell-branded products but available to all brands), Epson (free for Epson-branded products), HP (free for HP-branded products but available to all brands), Kodak, and Nintendo (free for Nintendo-branded products but available to all brands).

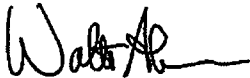

The enclosed map and address list indicate ongoing collection locations that accept consumer electronics from the public for free recycling. Event-based collections have also proved successful in Utah but are not shown in the map. Note that not all locations accept all consumer electronic products, but this list includes locations that accept televisions, computer equipment, and/or peripherals. Specific information for consumers on collection sites, including hours of operation and accepted products, is currently available online through CEA's www.GreenerGadgets.org.

CEA's eCycling Leadership Initiative is a voluntary industry-wide electronics recycling initiative that seeks to improve consumer awareness of the almost 7,500 collection sites currently sponsored by industry, increase the amount of electronics recycled responsibly, increase the number of collection opportunities available, and provide transparent metrics on eCycling efforts. In the eCycling Leadership Initiative's first year, participants of the Initiative arranged for the responsible recycling of 460 million pounds of consumer electronics, a 53 percent increase over the 300 million pounds recycled in 2010. Additionally, electronics manufacturers and retailers increased the number of recycling drop-off locations for consumers nationwide to nearly 7,500 from just over 5,000.

CEA represents more than 2,000 companies involved in the design, development, manufacturing, distribution and integration of audio, video, in-vehicle electronics, wireless and landline communications, information technology, home networking, multimedia and accessory products, as well as related services sold through consumer channels.

If we can provide any additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me at walcom@ce.org or (703) 907-7765.

Sincerely,
THE CONSUMER ELECTRONICS ASSOCIATION
